

Machine Learning – ES 654

Spring 2019

IITGN

1b:

(iii) It can be inferred that the random sampling also increases the model test accuracy with increase in no. of queries. But active learning using least confidence method works far more better than random sampling of points. Also the confidence of prediction for random sampling decreases with increase in no. of queries which is not good property of a ML model.